near months should have been the weak-est on the opening of the cotton exchange this morning, but, instead, the reverse was true. There was support of August and September by the bul pool and some covering, while new crop positions were for sale on account o exceptionally fine weather through the cotton belt. In fact, people having private connections with points in the South said the crop outlook at presen could hardly be improved upon. The chief thing to be feared now, according to these dispatches, is the boll weevil which is already making itself felt in out rain anywhere. After the call bull Realty Appraisal. 215
